

Wil LaVeist, PhD. is an award-winning writer, radio personality and multimedia communications professor and consultant. His research focuses on nonprofit and health communications. Dr. LaVeist has more than 20 years of print, broadcast and Internet journalism experience. He was on the original team that launched AZCentral.com, the online publication of the Arizona Republic. He led the web development team of the original BlackVoices.com (Tribune Co.), now Blackvoices Huff-Post. He was the first Black metro columnist for the Hampton Roads Daily Press newspaper (Tribune Co.), led Ebony Magazine's (Johnson Publishing) early efforts to expand online, and was editor/publisher of MIX Magazine (The Virginian-Pilot), where he hosted its TV Show and directed its web team. His work has appeared in publications such as, The Chicago Tribune, The Baltimore Sun, Los Angeles Times, The Philadelphia Daily News and The Arizona Republic, where he was a copy editor, reporter and online editor. "The Wil LaVeist Show" aired from the studios of Smooth 88.1FM WHOV (www.whov.org) at Hampton University's Scripps Howard School of Journalism and Communications. Dr. LaVeist has authored and contributed to books, including "Tom Joyner Presents How to Prepare for College," in partnership with the Tom Joyner Foundation, and "Black Voices in Commentary" of the Trotter Group. Dr. LaVeist received his bachelor's from The Lincoln University of Pennsylvania, master's from The University of Arizona School of Journalism and doctorate from Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Virginia. www.willaveist.com.